WHY ATTEND THE 2015 TASH CONFERENCE

Inclusive Education

This year's theme, "Celebrating 40 Years of Progressive Leadership," acknowledges TASH's 40 years of generating change within the disability community and anticipates a brighter, more inclusive future for people with disabilities in all aspects of life.

For decades, TASH has been a leader in promoting inclusive practices in education. TASH advocates for full membership, relationships, participation and learning for all students with the most complex support needs. The guidance and training TASH offers is firmly grounded in evidence-based practices and research, while also highlighting innovative and promising practices.

This year, educators, students, and parents will come together at the 2015 TASH Conference to discuss practical models that work in the classroom.

Hot Topics Include:

- Parent and community engagement
- Standards and the Common Core
- Positive Behavior Intervention Supports (PBIS)
- UDL, Differentiated Instruction, and Assistive Technology
- College and career readiness
- Inclusive practices in high schools
- Transition to post-secondary world of work
- Effective co-teaching models
- And much more!
